

Remote Sensing Opportunities

Speaker – Craig Dobson (University of Michigan)

A review of various sources and types of remote sensing data useful in industrial forestry management information systems. Discussion of the resolution of such data and the obstacles present to use such data operationally.